Finding Peer-Reviewed Articles in WISE

WISE is the Library's search engine, it searches:
- Everything we have in the building
- Everything we pay to have access to online
- A lot of stuff we don't have, but other libraries have (and we can get for our students if they need them)

1. From the Library’s homepage, try searching for one or two keywords related to your topic or search the specific title of what you’re looking for.

Once you search, books and ebooks will come up first.

2. To limit your results to only articles in peer reviewed journals click the sidebar button “Peer Reviewed”

(You can also limit your search by format (book, newspaper article, etc.), Author, Year, and Topic)

3. If you’re looking for an article, you might see a location, but more likely, you’ll see a button that says “View full text”. Click that button and it should bring you to the source.

3. The Dark Ages Haven’t Ended Yet: Kurt Vonnegut and the Cold War
