Q: I have the title of a book or article, how do I use WISE to find it? Has your professor recommended a specific resource, or have you found a good-looking abstract on google and you’re looking for full text? We recommend starting by searching for the title directly in the WISE search box.

If we have it, and it has a distinct title, it will be relatively easy to find. You may also consider putting “Quotation Marks” around the book title if you are seeing too many results.

If the book has a common title, you should try “Advanced Search”
There you can search by title, and add other search limiters- like the author, ISBN, or year.
Still not finding what you need? Try sorting results by ‘best match’ rather than ‘library’

If we do not have the book or article, you may have to inter-library loan it. Learn more about ILL

1. Ancient Greece
   by Daniel Cohen, James E. Seward
   Print book ©1990
   Focuses on the personalities and historical events which shaped the civilization of ancient Greece.

Not finding what you're looking for? Email us at askmcgill@westminster.edu and we'll happily help you out.